The school dance

- 1 I went to my first school dance last Saturday night and it was a disaster! If
- 2 only that I'd thought about what I was going to wear a bit more carefully. Although
- 3 being my best friend Jenny had told me it wasn't that kind of event, I'd decided
- 4 to look really grown-up and wear a dress and high-heeled shoes. When I got
- 5 there, I looked totally ridiculous and some people started laughing. Despite of
- 6 this slight setback, I thought I'd hit the dance floor. If I could have survive that,
- 7 I could survive anything. But even though that went wrong! One of my heels
- 8 snapped – even if though my shoes were brand new – and I had to carry them
- 9 to the side of the room. It was very embarrassing! Still, despite the disastrous
- 10 start was, Craig Fielding came up to me and asked me if I wanted to go out with him next Saturday. Of course I said no, but he is cute! We'll see what happens!

On the Catwalk

(1) the fact that I try to be as upbeat as possible in this column, I have to say Milan has disappointed me. If only we (2) possibly go back to the glory days of fashion (ie last year) when skirts were short and pink was the new black. Pink is still in this year, interestingly enough. (3) , it's only being used in accessories such as buckles, belts, braces and beads. Brown – the must-have colour of the season – has never been my favourite colour, (4) I have to say that Belinda Steven's all-brown paper beachwear was quite stunning. That's in (5) of its complete impracticality, of course. It really is (6) time that haute couture entered the real world just a tiny bit. I know it's supposed to be more art than clothing, but suppose you actually (7) the mistake of buying a Diego Fernandez baseball cap made of candle wax. That's one walk in the sunshine and five thousand euros is dripping down your face! Now, I'm not saying I wish I (8) stayed back in dull and grey London – the after-show parties were tremendous, as always. But I do hope that next season I (9) be able to report that the fashion world's got a grip on itself once more, and then – (10) though none of us will ever be able to afford any of the items I describe in this column – at least we'll have something to dream about once more.
